Special services were held in honor of 10 soldiers in uniform who were taken in the Pythian meters served supper in the Pythian Castle hall from 5:30 until 7:30.

MAJOR ALVA NILES BACK FROM SERVICE IN FRANCE

After having seen service both in the army camp of the United States and on the other side of the Atlantic, Maj. Alva J. Niles returned to Tulsa yesterday.

Prior to entering the service after the outbreak of the war, Maj. Niles had seen service in the Spanish-American war and also had commanded a company in the Mexican border campaign. About a year ago he went to Washington and offered his services as a commissioned major in the inspector general's department. His duties kept him in this country for several months, but last fall while inspector at Camp Travis, he received orders carrying him overseas. He has seen more than six months' foreign service.

"I am feeling fine and have enjoyed the service," said the major yesterday, "but I will be glad to get back into Tulsa's business life again. The old town certainly does look good."

NEGROES DISAPPOINTED WITH FEATURE WAR FILM

About 2,000 negroes of Tulsa got a rather indistinct view of the negro's part in the world war at convention hall last night. The spectators paid admissions of 50 cents and were shown two small reels of scenes mostly from Camp Pike. None of the "famous battle scenes" were shown as announced.

The film was worn and blurry and hard to watch, and unanimous was disappointment expressed by those who went to see what their race did to help win the war.

Dress Accessories Are Again the Vogue

Perhaps nothing has so emphasized the return to a pre-war status as the revival of all the gay accessories so dear to the feminine heart. Gay colored ostrich fans of huge proportions make a bid for first place. They are huge for the white

Andrew and Imogene

By ROE FULKERSON
"M" AIDA is certainly in trouble," remarked Imogene; "they haven't paid up for their Liberty bonds yet and now the teacher has sent Jimmy home to have his adenoids taken out and the oldest boy has been sent from high school to have his tonsils removed."
"Who sent 'em?" asked Andrew.
"Why the teachers, of course," said Imogene.
"Thank heaven, when I went to school the teacher paid no attention to my anatomy, except to look to see where a strap would hurt me most!" exclaimed Andrew.
"I certainly took a lot of care to have myself born of well-to-do and respected parents and I know I was sent to a nice school and all that, but somehow I cannot help but feel that I have been deprived of some of the joys of my youth because I was allowed to just come up without government inspection."
"Why, dear, they pay more attention to a beef steer coming in to market now than they paid to children coming up in our day."
"One of the things which compensates for not having any children is that if we had 'em, they would grow up and be ashamed of their parents for having tonsils and everything."
"Just imagine one of our boys going to propose to a modern girl. Before he could tell her he wanted her for a wife he would have to tell her in all fairness that he was born of a mother who, though a good woman in her day, had never had her adenoids taken out and laid his 10-a-week job at the feet of our daughter, she would have to just sob and tell him that before he contracted an alliance with our family she would have to confess a horrible secret to him and then she would sob out on his shoulder the dreadful fact that her father had grown up without having had his tonsils removed."
"There is no telling but what the other youngsters would cry 'em dead and keep them from joining frat societies and things in school on account of it."
"You see, dear, we are unsound citizens in an unsound nation and not sense enough to be ashamed of it."
"One will cost $75 and the other $50," said Imogene.
"Operation," said Imogene. "The adenoids are the cheapest, but it will take $75 for both and she will not be able to get the muskrat coat this winter after all, even if they are marked down since Christmas."
"Wait a minute!" exclaimed Andrew. "I can just see your dust going around the district nurse. I am not keeping up with you at all."
"I was feeling sorry we had no children to have the doctors cut up and feeling sorry that we never had the fun of inhaling ether and now you are either feeling sorry that Aida cannot have a muskrat coat or are rejoicing that the lives of 50 muskrats are—"
"And she said she was going to get a longer one than mine and that's what she gets, the jealous cat!" continued Imogene without even looking at him.

WILL HOLD CAMPAIGN AS PLANNED IN APRIL

Secretary Glass Sets at Rest Many Misapprehension Over Next Campaign for National Funds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Scores of telegrams reaching the treasury today indicated existence of a wide misapprehension that the Victory Liberty loan had been abandoned or modified materially by decision of the house ways and means committee to authorize issuance of notes instead of bonds. This prompted Secretary Glass to reiterate that the campaign would be held as planned, that it would begin April 21 or earlier, and that it would be popular in nature with the exception of selling the securities to millions of Americans of small means. The secretary expressed strong confidence that the loan would be not only subscribed but oversubscribed.

Patriotic impulses of most citizens will prompt them to contribute to the limit of their abilities, said the secretary, and business interests will give strong support for the additional reason that the financial and commercial soundness of the country depends on the government's payment of its debts.

Mr. Glass said the treasury had not determined the denominations of the securities to be issued, but he intimated that they would be as small as $50 as in past loans.

A process for making bayonets by rolling, thereby saving 70 operations, has been perfected.

REST ROOM IS ASSURED FOR A WHILE AT LEAST

In spite of the fact that the budget for the women's rest room has been exhausted and no funds were in sight for carrying on the work, Mayor Hubbard personally will guarantee the running expenses for the remainder of the month. From that time on it will be necessary to maintain the work by private subscription. This assurance was given Mrs. Wealthy Wilson by the mayor Thursday.

There is not room in the city hall as was at first suggested, and the room, with the assistance of merchants and private individuals, will be continued on Boston avenue, between First and Second streets, under the direction of Mrs. Effie Coudron, who has been in charge for several years. The rest room fills a need which has grown accordingly with the population of Tulsa and is a deserving institution which should be supported, the women of Tulsa believe. Mrs. Wilson has assumed the task of appearing before the various city clubs to make an appeal for the cause.

Four Minute Men Make Their Last Talks and Receive Decorations

With a last round of snappy four-minute speeches the Four Minute men of Tulsa, who rendered such valuable aid to the government in creating public opinion in favor of all war movements, formally disbanded at a dinner at the high school building Friday night, following which certificates of discharge and bronze service bars were presented to 50 of the city's short talkers.

The name "Four Minute Men" is not to be used again. If the president should have occasion to draft these or other orators into service again they will be called by some other name.

W. O. Buck, county chairman, presided at the farewell meeting. Among the speakers were Ralph Talbot, state chairman; Frank Greer, Rabbi Menkes, Dr. J. W. Abel, R. A. Wood, A. L. Farmer, R. S. Morley, J. S. Severson of Broken Arrow, M. C. Franty and C. H. Fenstermacher.

TO DECORATE CITY FOR 'VICTORY WEEK'

Retail Merchants Association Plans to Bedeck Tulsa With Flags and Gay Bunting.

Plans for bedecking the city in the nation's colors during "Victory Week"—the week of the national war exposition, were formulated by members of the Tulsa Retail Merchants association at a meeting at Thursday evening. The idea of clothing the city in flags and gay bunting will be carried out in every detail by the associated retailers. This movement is intended to create the true atmosphere that should accompany a celebration of such a nature and put the exposition across in Tulsa style.

The national war exposition will be in Tulsa during the week of March 8-13. It is not a proposed enterprise but contracts have been closed and work is progressing after a short delay, on construction of the grand stand and other necessary equipment. The exposition is strictly a government project and managed by army officers who have the hearty co-operation of the civic clubs of the city.
